Geography

The Manias Magurasas consist of solid and tough rock combined with icy glaciers. The rock primarily includes limestone, granite, gabbro, and other types. The mountains are covered by glaciers, but there is no snow above approximately 6,000 meters due to severe storms. Above 9,000 meters, there are unknown square or cylindrical structures made of stone or unidentified materials. It is unclear who built them.

Locations

Stardew City

Stardew City is an urban ruin constructed from stone. It is located at the summit of a certain mountain. At the center of the ruins stands a tower composed of star-shaped stone parts. This tower is considered by (true) higher vampires and dhampirs explorer teams to be a booster of the hypnosis waves sent by the Old Ones, who reside in the Desolate Dimension. However, these waves are ineffective on individuals who inherit vampire blood.

Climate

The temperature ranges as follows:

- On the ground: approximately -30 to -50 degrees Celsius.
- At 5,000 meters: approximately -50 to -60 degrees Celsius.
- At the summit: approximately -60 to -80 degrees Celsius.

Blizzards blow year-round at ground and low altitudes. At higher altitudes, severe winds exceeding 100 km/h replace the blizzards.

Animals and Plants

There are no native animals or plants due to the extreme climate. However, around the unknown buildings, there are parasitic creatures that infest humanoids and demi-humans, except dhampirs. These creatures resemble shoggoths. (True) Higher Vampires and dhampirs possess strong immunity against them.

Economy

The economy of the Manias Magurasas revolves around mining. It produces various metals such as gold, silver, copper, iron, mercury, tin, zinc, lead, various gems, and other unknown materials. Non-metals such as marble, arsenic, fluorite, borax, coal, sulfur, and rock salt are also mined. Additionally, fluorescent stones used as glass ink have been found.

Due to the harsh climate, farming or cultivation is nearly impossible. However, the steep slopes of the mountains provide opportunities for hydropower, which is used for purposes such as washing and smelting. This natural power is referred to as "welxtos" in the Ancient Caxantha Language.

Notes & Trivia

- Manias Magurasas is based on the Mountains of Madness.
- Kashan Mine is based on the fake article of Wikipedia.
